A few years ago we started an environmentally-friendly way of farming.

Along with local varieties of produce , such as Lucca tomatoes, wrinkled chickpeas and Maremma red garlic, we also produce unusual varieties like yellow and purple peppers, white aubergines and yellow courgettes.

A producer-consumer relationship based on mutual trust is at the heart of our activity, with the aim of putting into effect a real short-distance supply chain.

We are working hard to reduce our impact on the environment by: growing only seasonal produce, using organic fertilizers such as farmyard manure, optimising the use of water through drip system irrigation, employing reusable materials (irrigation hoses are used for more than one year), using biodegradable materials such as straw for mulching and broom for binding.

If treatments are necessary, they are carried out using products which are fully in line with the requirements of organic farming.
